

May this ring be the symbol of our said and unsaid promises. To stand by you, to listen, to learn, and to love you the best way I know how. May this be a reminder that I will always be by your side to support you to grow with you and explore things with you. I could never imagine that we would come this far, we've been through a lot, but we managed to stick together, with all those experiences and hardships that we share and faced, I am truly excited to build and conquer the future with you. We've climbed so many mountains together; some we saw coming and others just came unexpected. But through every high and low we've held on and still were able to push through. There are more mountains ahead but because of everything we faced already, I have no doubt we'll move them. Together.

This may be just a piece of jewelry but for us this is a milestone, a milestone of our love and dedication. I will always Love You, take care of you, and always be there for you. I Love You so much bubbly, ayos ng flow ko neh.